DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. This action is in response to the request for reconsideration filed 05 September 2002.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-3 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. The previous action had rejected the claims using Shambroom in view of Schneier. The rejection in this action uses both of these references, but the latter is used to detail inherent features in the former.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

3. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

4. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claims 1-3 claim data, which is nonfunctional descriptive material. As such, embodying the data on a computer-readable would NOT make the claims statutory. See MPEP 706.03(a) and, especially, 2106 IV B 1 (b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shambroom (5923756) and Schneier (Applied Cryptography) in view of Shear et al. (6157721).

In lines 32-35 of column 10, Shambroom discusses a certificate that includes a public key and list of one or more cryptographic algorithms supported by the entity associated with the public key. The certificate can resemble an X.509 certificate. On pages 574 and 575, Schneier describes the X.509 certificate. As can be seen in figure 24.2, the certificate includes a section that identifies the algorithm, parameters, and a public key. There is also a section for a signature. These read on the first clause of applicant's first claim. The list of algorithms disclosed in Shambroom also anticipates an extension for identifying at least one alternative algorithm. Shambroom does not dictate that a second public key and signature therefor be included in the certificate. In their abstract, Shear et al. say that using several dissimilar digital signature algorithms and their resultant signatures may "reduce the scope of any specific compromise." Therefore it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to put multiple signatures formed with different algorithms in Shambroom's exemplary X.509 certificate, thereby protecting the data from compromise. Inclusion of the secondary public key in the certificate would save an authenticator from tracking it down, thereby increasing efficiency.

With respect to claim 2, pages 480 and 481 of Schneier discuss elliptic curve public key systems. RSA is first mentioned on page 17. According to Schneier, it is the most popular public-key algorithm. There are trade-offs between the two, particularly in terms of the relative computational workloads of the two entities (signer and verifier). Therefore it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to support RSA and an elliptic curve cryptosystem with the X.509 certificate taught by Shambroom.

Both signatures verify at least part of the certificate and hence read on claim 3.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Bakhle et al. (6021201).
